

WEDNESDAY – NOVEMBER 20, 2013

ECONOMIC FORECAST

KEVIN J. THORPE
Chief Economist, Principal
Cassidy Turley Commercial Real Estate Services

BOMA New Jersey is excited to have Kevin Thorpe address its membership on the current economic conditions in our State including a perspective on the market, relevant trends and the latest forecast.

As Cassidy Turley's Chief Economist, Mr. Thorpe is responsible for overseeing the Research Department in their major regional offices, as well as focusing on national trends and forecasts in the commercial real estate industry. Kevin's group produces studies and statistics on topics affecting the national and local economy, capital markets, finance, leasing fundamentals, property and project management, and factors that affect supply-demand fundamentals in commercial real estate. Kevin has developed several econometric models to predict market trends, is a member of the National Association of Business Economists, and has authored numerous studies and survey reports. Kevin is frequently quoted in publications such as The Wall Street Journal, the Washington Post, and has made several television appearances on financial networks and radio.
